

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office

February 28, 1997 LB 104

hubbub, and I could scarcely hear myself talk, but I make sure that I'm talking so my voice is picked up by the microphone, because the transcription doesn't say that everybody was walking around, playing games, and talking. What the transcription says is that these very compelling arguments were given, the Legislature was exposed to them, and the legislators chose to ignore them. That's why my words get quoted in Nebraska Supreme Court opinions and not those of my colleagues, because I know what it is I'm saying, and I have a reason for saying what I say, and I'm addressing those remarks to a specific issue that will come up...

SENATOR CROSBY: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...on another day, just like the suit I'm going to file against the city of Omaha. That's a promise I've done the research already, and I'm just waiting, but I'm going to give them a chance. I believe in always giving a rat a way out if he wants it. I will never put even a rat in a corner he can't come out of. If the rat wants to get out, I'll let him out, so I'm going to write to Lee Terry, Jr. and the City Council and point out what it is my intention to do and give them the documentation of their illegal action and give them a chance to change it. And then if they don't change, woe upon their unworthy head. And, Senator Tyson, when I start distributing woe, woe upon the woe receivers.

SENATOR CROSBY: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Before continuing, we have some more guests in the north balcony, and under the north...under the north balcony, Senator Witek has as her guest today, her daughter, Kimberly Witek, Kortney Pincock, and Andrea Perry, all from Omaha. Would you three please stand and be welcomed by your Legislature. And in the north balcony, we have guests of Senator Jensen with their teacher, fourth and fifth graders, 27 of them, from Cross Lutheran School in Omaha. (Introduced teacher.) Would you please stand and be recognized. Also we have eight young adults here in the north balcony with their teacher, and they are from the University of Wisconsin in Parkside. (Introduced teacher.) They are a track team. Would you all please stand and be welcomed by the Nebraska Legislature. Thank you. Continuing debate on the reconsideration motion, Senator Lynch.
